I create this website with the purpose of storing user created recipes into a database, and to find new and unique recipes I could attempt to recreate from people who have accessed my website, as well as help others who are in search of recipes, but do not know where to look. A user, who is not logged in has the option to post a recipe (Anonymously) or with a name. However, once logged in the user's name should be displayed on the recipe, thus linking the user to the recipe. Once a recipe has been posted by the user, it will be stored in the database, and displayed on the homepage, and in all recipes section. In future versions of this website I would like to implement a list of all the recipes from a single user, as well as a way to search for recipes by name, type, author.

The reason I wanted to create this website was because baking is a relatively new hobby that I decided to do more often throughout the pandemic, it has really helped me stay motivated and gave me a way to stay focused on what I want to do, as well as giving me time off from all the technology that I'm surrounded by on a daily bases. Baking is one of the few things I looked forward to doing in my week, it has helped me a lot mentally during these chaotic times and making a website for something that I have been very passionate about just seems like the right thing to do.
